- Dust Runners Automotive Journal, Founder

I built this site from the ground up running Wordpress to launch me into the web development space. Overall this site taught me a lot about web development, SEO, and how to improve user experience.

- Crisis Preparation and Recovery, Junior Web Developer

Crisis Preparation and Recovery had a very old non mobile friendly website that was in desperate need of an update. I built them a very nice website powered by WordPress with a Bootstrap theme I built. crisispreandrecovery.com

Summary:

In late 2016 I decided I wanted to become a web developer. I enrolled at a local “web development bootcamp” and learned how to build a website from scratch. To date I have built 3 Javascript applications which you can view on my website. I am very enthusiastic about getting into the web development field as a professional.
